PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

by Adele Druck

A visit to the Friends Bookstore will now reveal several newly-framed certificates on the walls:
AWARD: In September, State Senator Fran Pavley designated our Friends group as "Volunteer of the Month."

AWARD: In October, City Councilmembers Bob Blumenfield and Paul Koretz presented us with a beautiful Certificate saluting and celebrating the Friends.

AWARD: Then came a Certificate of Appreciation from the Los Angeles Public Library for our efforts in support of the Library.

HOW WONDERFUL TO BE APPRECIATED. TAKE A BOW, FRIENDS' MEMBERS!!

CITY-WIDE FRIENDS MEETING — by President Adele Druck

Bonnie Siegel and I attended the Annual City-Wide Friends Breakfast meeting hosted by the Los Angeles Public Library (LAPL) at the Central Library in downtown Los Angeles, on Saturday October 18, 2014. Representatives from Friends groups as well as Senior Librarians from most City Branches were in attendance.

After a buffet breakfast and opportunities to mingle, we assembled in the LAPL Taper Auditorium where Jenè Brown, LAPL Manager Strategic Projects and Partnerships, introduced City Librarian John Szabo.

-- John began by thanking the 70 Friends Groups for the support they give the Library, acknowledging his understanding of the work the groups do, including lifting boxes and raising funds for branches.

-- He told us that the state of the Library is healthy and that the funds available through Measure L are being used in many ways - that all promises of Measure L have been met and some ahead of schedule: Sunday hours were restored at the main and regional locations a year ahead of schedule and expanded hours at all branches took effect October 1.

-- Now the Library's focus is on landscaping and maintenance issues. New phone systems are being installed and Wi-Fi bandwidth has been increased.

--14,000 people have participated in the Citizenship Program, and the Literacy Program has celebrated its 30-year anniversary.

-- John talked about reaching out to the community with a focus on empowerment. LAPL is the first to institute an online High School Diploma program. 53 people are currently participating and the program has a capacity of 125. Health programs by neighborhoods are being instituted with eye exams done by the Jules Stine Eye Clinic; and 10,000 meals have been provided at 10 libraries in under-served neighborhoods.

-- He told us that he is pleased with the support he is getting from the City and that the Library represents 50% of all web traffic to the City.

-- He summarized by saying that the library represents access, opportunity, and respect.

John then introduced Keynote Speaker Louise Steinman. Ms Steinman manages the Library Foundation Aloud Program and is the Author of two books: The Souvenir: A Daughter Discovers Her Father's War and The Crooked Mirror: A Memoir of Polish-Jewish Reconciliation. Both books deal with things her parents would not talk about: Her father's experiences in the Pacific in World War II, and her mother's family in wartime Poland. She talked about investigating and working toward reconciliation with the survivors.

Next was a panel discussion on Increasing Membership led by the Center for Nonprofit Management.

We then were offered a choice of taking a Docent-led tour of the Central Library or talking with Better World Books, a company that purchases leftover books from Friends groups. Our Book Sale committee has not elected to use Better World Books (see page 3 "Where Do Our Donated Books Go?"), so Bonnie and I went on the interesting Library Tour. (...continued on page 6)

2014 FRIEND OF THE YEAR - BONNIE SIEGEL

The Board Members of the Friends of the Library are very proud to honor Bonnie Siegel as our 2014 Friend of the Year. Bonnie has been volunteering for several years - working with our Co-Chair and other volunteers in our Friends' Bookstore and at our quarterly Book Sales. At least twice a week, she does many tasks for the Friends in the Library: She sorts large and small book/media donations; helps schedule sorters; helps update the Bookstore; sets up/works/cleans-up after the sales; submits sale announcements to print and online publications; writes thank you notes; and does whatever else requested. She was a Committee member for the Friends Volunteer and Staff Brunch. Also, Bonnie serves on the Friends' Board as a Member-At-Large and has co-authored the Procedure Manual for the Bookstore and Book Sales.

Bonnie says that she enjoys working with so many bright, positive, and entertaining people. She feels that the Library Staff is always kind and helpful. Further, she says they all "make it a joy to go in twice a week."

In her "former life," Bonnie was a project manager, raised in the Valley, and returned here to raise her children. We're so glad she's here!!

SORTERS NEEDED

We need more help sorting donated books and media for our book sales -- only a few hours once or twice a week. AND you get a chance to preview the books you might buy during the sales. We would love to have you join us. Please contact Margaret Talvin - 818.343.7105 or mtalvin@mac.com

WHERE DO OUR DONATED BOOKS GO?

First – THANK YOU TO OUR DONORS – you who donate items from your personal libraries – in beautiful condition. You help us do our job!

Now – what happens to your donated books? Our Friends created our Bookstore and book sales mainly to raise money to support the Library's acquisitions and activities. Therefore, our Librarians get to see the donations first – and they select items to supplement our Encino-Tarzana collection.

Whatever is left, we are happy to sell (most for 50 cents to one dollar) to 'spread some sunshine' by providing homes for many wanted books and media. For example:

-- Most go to readers, adults and children. Some complete a personal collection of books by a particular author or books on a special topic. Getting that one missing Louis L'Amour title can be a joy. Supporting an interest in biography/cooking/photography can be very expensive. Our prices help!
– High school students like the test-prep books; home-schoolers grab the textbooks. Some find a classic they always wanted to read. Others grab the book read as a child and always remembered. Many want that title on the shelf at home again.

-- Others are bought to be given away. Diane buys to give to students at the school where she volunteers. Another buyer sends many to the Philippines to help people there learn English. And also, some do come back as re-donations.

Then there are the leftovers that did not sell this time. Some are saved for our Bookstore or our next quarterly Book Sale. Some are shared with other Friends groups for their book sales and book stores. Others are donated to charitable groups such as the YMCA, St. Vincent de Paul, and a local battered women's shelter. Some go to other nonprofits such as: Pasadena City jail and similar, Sylmar Juvenile Detention, United American Indian Involvement, and Hopi Centers. Then too, others go to a local middle school library and art class, Vietnam Vets, Operation Gratitude to send to the troops, and to the Central Library collection (mostly Russian).

It gives us great pleasure to know that our books and media bring joy to others.... And the funds we collect from our sales go right back to our Encino-Tarzana Branch Library. See "Supporting Our Library" on our website -- <http://www.etlibraryfriends.org/3donations.php>

WHY DO WE VOLUNTEER FOR THE FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY?

“I buy hundreds (thousands over the years) of books to donate to the local Title I public elementary school. Volunteering as a book sorter gives me the opportunity to preview books at the wonderful Bookstore and book sale prices.” -- Diane H-G.

“I love reading and books. And I enjoy meeting all the people and selling the books.” -- Phyllis B.

“I've just come from New York City. I lived there all my life. It is a whole different world but thankfully the library remains the same. I feel at home.” -- Blanche S.

“I feel it's important to encourage reading and recycling of books. It's a wonderful opportunity to interact with community members who respect and appreciate learning.” -- Anonymous

“During the last book sale, I referred a close friend to volunteer. When she arrived, she was happily surprised by the warm gracious welcome she received. I always love the time that I spend with the Friends of the Library but knowing that we are welcoming to all makes us one of the unique volunteer groups in the Valley! Thank you.” -- Judith S.

“As a retired Librarian (children's, young adult, adult), I feel more comfortable working with books, and keeping in touch with a class of people, who love to read.” -- Paula C-H.

“I volunteer because I have always loved to read. When I was young it was a great place to get away from the roughhousing of my brothers. Now I am able to leave work early to work in the Bookstore. I love to meet new people and the children who get to own their very own books!! It has been a blessing to be able to volunteer for such a great group.” -- Mary M.

“I joined the volunteers almost immediately upon my arrival in Encino, having moved here from London, England. I wanted to support my local library as I believe it provides a wonderful service for the local community and I wanted to play my part in ensuring it would continue to do so. I also have a more selfish reason, in that I wanted to meet people of like mind in my new local area. The Friends have more than met my expectations on both fronts and I hope to continue my association with them for many years to come.” -- Anonymous

I have often thought of the differences in the things we do when we travel, versus our activities in our everyday environment. On a vacation in a strange city, we explore the important buildings and appreciate the art and historic influences. Yet how often do we do the same thing in our own city?

After the Friends of the Library Citi-Wide Meeting (see page 2), a group of us were afforded an opportunity to take a docent-led tour of the Central Library. The building is a blend of old and new with much of the original 1926 structure restored after a devastating fire in 1986. We were shown inscribed door frames from the original building now installed outside the auditorium in which our meeting had been held. We then took an elevator to the second floor rotunda to see the murals high above the dome shaped room. The murals depict California history and are painted in pastel colors, which were very unusual for their time.

We visited the children's area where the carpeting has figures of animals worked into the pattern. You have to look carefully to see them. The environment here is conducive to storytelling with child-sized furniture. A special feature of the area is a puppet theater for presentations.

One of my favorite things to do is to take an elevator ride and see, through a glass wall of the elevator, the thousands of catalog cards which line the walls of the shaft. I have so many memories of searching through card catalogs in my schooldays and have a deep feeling of nostalgia for this lost amenity, although a computer search is a convenient but soul-less alternative.

After viewing Egyptian themed sculptures we moved on to the new modern addition to the Library with an eight-story atrium with escalators flowing like a river to the various levels and topped with enormous fanciful chandeliers.

We completed the tour in the main lobby to look at the modern ceiling mural in bright colors with the names of authors worked into geometric patterns.

If you have not explored this treasure in our own backyard, I highly recommend you do. Daily Walk-In Tours of the Central Library last approximately one hour. No reservations are necessary for groups of six or less. The tours leave from the front of the Library Store in the main lobby accessible via the Fifth Street, Hope Street, and Flower Street entrances. Tour times are: Monday - Friday 12:30 pm; Saturday 11:00 am & 2:00 pm; Sunday 2:00 pm.
